Discover Your God-Given Worth.

A GIFT FOR YOU

From The Self-Love Sanctuary

Peace and Love, Family.

This complimentary Day One experience is our gift to you.

May these pages give you a quiet place to reflect,
to tell yourself the truth with compassion, and to begin reconnecting with the worth your Heavenly Father placed within you.

Take your time.

There is no race here.

Your journey begins when you are ready.

Welcome Home.

DEDICATION

To the one who is rebuilding...

This is for you.

For every moment you felt broken, but still chose to keep going.
For every tear that taught you something.
For every silence that turned into strength.

Healing does not create your worth.
Your worth was never yours to earn.
What happened to you is not who you are.
You are still becoming, and that is a beautiful thing.

You are worthy of love.
You are worthy of peace.
You are worthy of care.
You are worthy of becoming.

Not because of what you have done,
but because your worth is God-given.
May Rebuilding Me help you rediscover it.

Peace and Love,
Sister Halima

PSALM 139:14

(KJV)

*"I will praise thee;
for I am fearfully and wonderfully made:
marvellous are thy works;
and that my soul

REBUILDING ME

DAY ONE

Before You Begin

Peace and Love, Family.

You are not here to “fix” yourself.
You are here to create space for healing.

Rebuilding Me is a faith-inspired healing and identity-restoration journey. These pages are a safe and gentle space for you to:

Acknowledge what hurt.

Release what you no longer need to carry.

♥
Examine what you came to believe about yourself.

See yourself again through the lens of God's love.

As you reflect, you'll be invited to write, to be honest, to be gentle with yourself, and to take small steps toward wholeness. This is your time. There is no right or wrong way to move through these pages.

Go gently.
You have already begun.

REBUILDING ME

DAY ONE

This Is Your Time

Rebuilding Me is not about rushing. It's about creating a gentle, honest space where you can be real with yourself and with God. These pages are not a program to make you perfect—they are a place to help you remember who you are, whose you are, and what is still possible.

BE HONEST WITH YOURSELF

Give yourself permission to feel, to reflect, and to write the truth. Your honesty is the first step toward healing.

MOVE AT YOUR OWN PACE

There is no deadline and no right or wrong way to do this. Take your time. You can pause, return, and repeat any page as often as you need.

INVITE GOD INTO THE PROCESS

You don't have to do this alone. Ask God to guide your thoughts, fill the empty places, and give you clarity, strength, and peace as you move through these pages.

BELIEVE IN WHAT CAN BE

Healing is possible. Peace is possible. A brighter tomorrow is possible. You are not defined by your past—you are being renewed, and there is more ahead.

"He makes all things beautiful in His time."

ECCLESIASTES 3:11 (KJV)

Go at Your Own Pace.

DAY ONE

YOUR GENTLE RHYTHM

How to Use This Journal

Each day follows a simple and gentle rhythm. Take your time, and move through the pages in a way that feels right for you.

1

Begin with the opening reflection.
Set your heart. Welcome the day.

RECEIVE

Pause with the Scripture.
Let God's Word speak to you.

3

WRITE

Answer honestly.
This is your private space.
Be real. Your story matters.

GO DEEPER

Sit gently with the deeper question.
Explore. Be open. Be kind to yourself.

PRACTICE

Complete the journal exercise.
Take a small step toward healing.

DECLARE

End with your Gentle Declaration.
Speak life over yourself.

*There is no perfect way to heal.
There is only your way forward.*

One page. One truth. One gentle step at a time. ♥

DAY ONE

HONOR WHAT YOU FEEL

What You May Notice

SOME MOMENTS MAY FEEL LIGHT

You may recognize something and feel relief.

SOME MAY FEEL HEAVY

An old emotion may rise to the surface. It's okay to feel it. You are still safe here.

SOME MAY BRING CLARITY

You may begin seeing yourself or your experience differently.

SOME MAY ASK YOU TO REST

You may simply need to pause—and that is okay. Rest is part of the process.

None of these responses mean you are doing this wrong.

Healing does not always move in a straight line.
Listen to yourself. Move gently.

Even resting can be part of rebuilding.

DAY ONE

BEFORE YOU WRITE

This is your story.

You decide how much of it you are ready to tell today.

You do not have to explain everything.
You do not have to relive everything.
You only have to be honest about what you are ready to acknowledge.

Your words belong to you.

Write gently.
Write truthfully.
Stop when you need to.

There is room for your truth here.

and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit."*

— Psalm 34:18 (KJV)

TODAY'S REFLECTION

Healing begins when we stop pretending that what hurt us didn't matter.

There are experiences we survive by pushing forward.
We tell ourselves to be strong. We keep moving.
We learn how to function around the pain.

But surviving something does not mean it did not leave a wound.
Today, you are not being asked to relive everything that happened.

You are simply giving yourself permission to acknowledge that it hurt.

*What happened to you may be part of your story.
It is not the definition of who you are.*

Your worth remains God-given.

DAY ONE

Reflection & Writing

A Safe Place for Your Truth.

Be honest with yourself.
There is no right or wrong answer here.

TAKE A MOMENT

What comes to mind when you think about what broke you?

2

It's okay to name the feelings.
Your feelings are valid.

EXPLORE A LITTLE DEEPER

How did these experiences affect you — emotionally, mentally, or spiritually?

3

You are not stuck here.
You are choosing healing, one step at a time.

A GENTLE CLOSING THOUGHT

What do you want to release, and what do you want to invite into this new chapter?

*I acknowledge my past, but I also embrace my healing.
I am more than what hurt me. *

LOOK BENEATH THE WOUND

A Deeper Question

Sometimes the deepest wound isn't only what happened. It's what we began believing about ourselves because it happened.

What did this experience make me begin to believe about myself?

Did I begin believing...

I wasn't enough?

I wasn't
worthy of love?

I had to earn acceptance?

My needs didn't matter?

Now ask yourself:

Is that belief the truth — or is it something the wound taught me?

*A wound can speak loudly.
That doesn't make it the truth.*

Your identity is greater than what happened to you.

WHAT THE WOUND SAID

The wound may have tried to tell you...

I wasn't enough.

I wasn't worthy.

I didn't matter.

I was too much.

I would always be this way.

I couldn't be loved.

These were lies born from pain, not the truth about who you are.

WHAT I KNOW NOW

If the wound does not get the final word, what truth are you ready to begin believing about yourself?

SANCTUARY TRUTH

What happened affected me, but it does not own my identity.
I can acknowledge the wound without becoming the wound.

"I am fearfully and wonderfully made."

— Psalm 139:14 (KJV)

I am still who God created me to be.

My past is a part of my story, but it is not my final chapter.
Today, I choose to see myself through God's eyes — with love, hope, and new possibilities.

REBUILDING ME

DAY ONE

MY GENTLE DECLARATION

What I Choose to Carry Forward

Today, I acknowledge what hurt me without allowing it to define me.

I honor what I survived.
I release the lies pain taught me.
I make room for the truth of who I am.

I am worthy of love.
I am worthy of peace.
I am worthy of care.
I am worthy of becoming.

My worth was not given to me by my pain, and my pain cannot take it away.

My worth is God-given.

MY WORD FOR TODAY

What truth do I want to carry with me from Day One?

*I acknowledge what broke me.
But I am still becoming.
And today, I chose to begin.*
